

The 90-Day Prosperity Experiment

Day 52: Looking At What's Right by Kate Nowak

Hello from my heart to yours,

You know what I think? I think you're about to experience boundless prosperity. And I think it's going to happen soon. You know why? Because you're here. You are already on your way to an amazingly prosperous life or you wouldn't even be reading this.

A lot of the people who joined this experiment 52 days ago aren't here any longer. Some of them, in fact, quit only a few days after getting started.

They were the ones who thought it was too much work, too much reading, or took too much time. They were the ones who said they already knew all this stuff. And so they quit.

But you didn't.

You stuck it out. You did the work, did the reading, and took the time. And even though you already knew a lot of what was written, you decided to not just read about it this time, but to also put it into practice. And you're still doing it.

That makes you exceptional. And exceptional people have a tendency to get what they want out of life. That's one of the reasons they're exceptional.

And that's the primary reason I think you are going to be exceedingly prosperous. You have proven yourself. I have faith in you. And I hope by now, you are beginning to have faith in yourself.

A few days ago I had the opportunity to sit down and chat with my friend Sam, who not too awfully long ago, sold an Internet business for a whopping $58 million. I told him about the Prosperity Experiment and the high number of people who were eager to start, but then quit as soon as it became obvious that becoming prosperous was going to take some work. Sam laughed and told me about one of the men who was an early investor in his company.

As a successful entrepreneur, Sam understands that in the beginning when you're building a company, it's like taking care of a hungry puppy, one that's demanding all the attention and puppy chow you can give it. Sam "had a feeling" and knew in his heart that this new company had all the potential it needed for explosive success. The investor, on the other hand, was more inclined to depend on "cold hard facts," and those facts told him that the fledgling company couldn't survive.

And so, with his vision too clouded by failure to see the success hovering on the horizon, he stepped aside, relinquishing partnership in a company he saw as doomed. A few months later, with the company now grown into a successful concern, Sam and his other investors sold it for an amazingly healthy profit.

Had the doomsday investor stuck it out, his share of those profits would have been in excess of $4 million.

In the early 1880s, just a few miles from where I live, a farmer stepped out of his house one day to watch a rider approaching. The rider, a merchant named Will Johnson, was scouting the area for lumber to sell to the railroad.

For a few minutes the two discussed harvesting what little lumber was available and then Johnson asked if he might have a drink of water before leaving. The farmer fetched him a drink, apologizing for the water's brackish taste as he handed it over.

"There's some kind of black rock in the ground here," the farmer explained, "and it gives the well water that awful taste."

Johnson, having grown up in Eastern coal country, knew at once what the "black rock" was and felt in his gut that a fortune was waiting to be made. And before leaving that day, he was able to successfully negotiate the purchase of the farmer's land.

Within a short time, he'd also managed to acquire thousands of surrounding acres from other farmers who were just as delighted to sell their "worthless pieces" of land as the first had been. And in less than five years from the day he rode onto the first farmer's property, Will Johnson created a massive coalmining concern that he was able to sell to eager investors for several million dollars. And in the 1880s, several million dollars was A LOT OF MONEY! Will Johnson's combined sense of awareness and persistence made him a very rich man.

Now that I've shared these two stories, would you like to know what you, my friend Sam, and Will Johnson have in common? A prosperity mindset, that's what. Because while those early quitters were thinking about what is wrong with this experiment, and the investor was thinking about what was wrong with the new company, and the farmers were thinking about what was wrong with the land, you and Sam and Will were busy thinking about what was right.

And that's what makes you exceptional.

It's also the reason boundless prosperity is coming at you as fast as it can.

You'd better get ready. Because it is definitely is on its way. In fact, it's already here and is just waiting on you to give it permission to make its appearance.

A Special Note from Kate: As we move toward the final 30 days of this experiment, you will notice some changes being made. For instance, the daily messages during the final 30 days will be focused on the Five Stratospheric Laws of Success as outlined in The Go-Giver written by Bob Burg and John David Mann. If you are unfamiliar with the book, the Five Laws of Stratospheric Success are as follows:

The Law of Value: Your true worth is determined by how much more you give in value than you take in payment.

The Law of Compensation: Your income is determined by how many people you serve and how well you serve them.

The Law of Influence: Your influence is determined by how abundantly you place other people's interests first.

The Law of Authenticity: The most valuable gift you have to offer is yourself.

The Law of Receptivity: The key to effective giving is to stay open to receiving.

During the last 30 days of the experiment, we will be devoting six of the daily messages to each law in turn until all five have been covered. You'll also discover the final destination for the money you've been placing in your container each day. Here's a hint: It's someone you're really going to like giving that money to. Neat, huh?

The experiment is also going to get a little more intense. More will be asked of you than has been in the past. After all, this is your life we're talking about. What you are willing to give in time, energy and thought now will translate into what your life becomes in the future.

And just in case you forgot, let me say it again: You are exceptional: A champion of the first rank. Your birthright is to be a happy, confident, prosperous and highly successful individual. Your time to claim that birthright has come. So get ready to grab it and hold on tight!

Today's Action Step:

1. Re-read your Prosperity Business Plan and your ~~Ten~~ Eleven Things Gratitude List.
2. Take a moment to stand firmly with one arm raised to the heavens, the fist clenched as firmly as if you were holding on to the hand of God. Now either mentally or vocally affirm: "As God as my witness, I am powerful today, I am brave today, I am strong today, I am fearless today, I prosper today. And I am living each moment of this day embracing my true nature and moving closer to becoming the person I am destined to be. For today and every day from this point forward this is my truth."

Note: If possible write this affirmation on a card that will fit in your wallet or purse and carry it with you so you can refer whenever you feel doubts or fears arising. And each time you repeat this affirmation, say the words with as much feeling and emotion as you possibly can, spending at least one full minute imagining every aspect of your life as you want it to be.

3. Place today's allotment of money in your container and read the affirmation on the container three times. Expect to receive in return.

4. Bless those around you, including your fellow participants in this experiment. See those you bless prospering and surrounded by good. Then bless yourself and see the same. You may also want to continue blessing those on the blessing request list.

5. Return to the blessings requests and read the responses being posted by those who have been blessed. (You'll find a link at the bottom of this email, or simply go to bettertobless.com and click on "Request a Blessing") Your blessings are making a difference. Reading the responses will give you an opportunity to see for yourself.

Today's Quote:

" Nothing in this world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; nothing is more common than unsuccessful people with talent. Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb. Education will not; the world is full of educated derelicts. Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent. The slogan 'press on' has solved and always will solve the problems of the human race."

— Calvin Coolidge

Today's Affirmation:

"I AM exceptional! I AM successful! I AM prosperous! I AM a champion!"
